

The Maltech Company

Industry: Production of Construction Machines
Export Countries: Worldwide
Sales volume: **-
Employees: 30-40

Maltech Srl, founded in 1979, hails from South Tyrol, the northernmost and German-Italian speaking part of Italy. CEO Wilhelm Stofner founded the company as a retailer for construction materials. However, over the years, Maltech Srl expanded its activity and started with the construction of machines. In the nineties, the company was already manufacturing machines for the construction sector. The first plastering machine made by Maltech dates back to 1992/93. In the beginning, Maltech almost exclusively supplied the domestic territory, exploring the market and finally reaching today's status, with almost 50 export countries. 2008 saw the opening of the new headquarter in Zona artigianale Reifenstein near Vipiteno, Italy's northernmost city. Ten years later, a new workshop has been constructed, with a surface of 1000 m².

Today, Maltech Srl is one of the major producers of equipment for pre-mixed plaster processing on the international stage. Our customers appreciate our company because of our loyalty and competence.

Our company's philosophy

Maltech is your reliable partner for all construction-related issues. As one of the major manufacturers of machines for pre-mixed wet material, we are proud to have our products rank between the industry's most sophisticated. All over the world, customers in construction and interior fittings rely on our company and our authorised dealers on all five continents.

The Maltech philosophy is reflected in our claim: Efficiency for construction – a motto followed by our staff and executive board.

We provide quality machinery for pre-mixed wet materials on the international construction market, offering excellent customer service.

Our staff are the pillars of our ever expanding company. We treasure a clear communication and appreciation of every colleague, as well as fairness – making people happy to work for us. High-quality work starts with the single individual.

Construction Machines from South Tyrol

We constantly customise our quality standards in order to match actual developments. Apart from our core business, we have a strong commitment towards a living corporate culture. We communicate our authentic brand on various levels and keep our partnerships lively and sustainable. In this way, Maltech continues to confront all challenges, scoring with strength, self-confidence and innovative spirit.

