Our commitment to innovation is driven by extensive research in the scientific literature, which initially led us to the development of cutting-edge therapeutic lasers. Later, we identified further potential in the cryo- and thermotherapy, which are widely used in Northern and Central Europe. A step forward in our journey was the integration of a portable cryo-thermal with the combination of innovative ultrasound, which helped redefine the standards of effectiveness and portability. Consultation of the scientific literature eventually guided us towards the creation of Sélene, a cryo-thermal device intended for the aesthetic sector, with a particular focus on reducing adipose tissue.

Description:

Hakomed Italia Srl was founded in 2001 with the aim of distributing electromedical equipment in Italy. After many years of experience in the field of physiotherapy and rehabilitation, in 2014 we created our own brand called qmd® - qualified medical device. In the following years, we focused on the development of therapeutic lasers and cryo-thermal devices. Thanks to our know-how in the medical sector, we expanded our product line for the aesthetics sector in 2019. The sophisticated design and high level of innovation of our dynamic team have enabled us to establish ourselves on the market in a short time and to make the qmd® brand known worldwide. In just a few years, we have managed to expand sales beyond national borders and establish a distribution network in almost 40 countries. We are a young and innovative company that has successfully specialised in the fields of physiotherapy, rehabilitation and aesthetics. We offer highly innovative technological solutions and guarantee quality and reliability to our customers. Today, we focus on the one hand on the consolidation of our qmd® - qualified medical device brand, but on the other hand on the development of new devices. Together with all our partners, we want to continue along this path so that our products remain a point of reference for today's customers and become one for tomorrow's customers. Hakomed Italia is known for honest, correct and professional relationships. We have a social responsibility and our goal is to promote and sustainably improve physiotherapy, rehabilitation and aesthetics for the benefit of society.
